

Camp Wildcat barracks in Tilden Nature Area

Environmental Education Center

The Environmental Education center (EEC) has exhibits that tell the story of the Wildcat Creek Watershed, and has information on park activities and wildlife. A self-guided trail booklet is available for loan. The EEC is open from 10 a.m.- 4:30 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday.

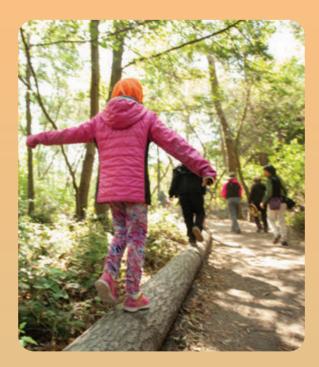

Tilden Little Farm

The historic Tilden Little Farm is adjacent to the EEC. The red barn was constructed in 1955 by Berkeley High School carpentry students, with materials donated by the Berkeley Kiwanis Club. The Little Farm is home to a variety of farm animals. Several heritage breeds of livestock are preserved, including Milking Shorthorn Cattle. Visitors are welcome to bring lettuce or celery (but nothing else) to feed the animals. The Little Farm is open daily from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Naturalist Programs

Park naturalists offer a variety of interpretive programs for schools, organized groups, and the public. Programs provide exciting opportunities to learn about the area's natural and cultural history. Program information can be found inside the EEC, online at ebparks.org, or in the District's activity guide, Regional in Nature. To make school or group program reservations, please call the EEC at 510-544-2233, or visit the District's website.

Trails in Tilden Nature Area

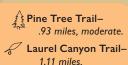

The Nature Area is still a land of wild places. Help keep it natural and beautiful for generations to come. Please leave all plant, wildlife, and geological features undisturbed. Do not litter; if you carry it in, carry it out. To avoid poison oak, stay on the trails. Hikes range from the leisurely, self-guided lewel Lake Nature Trail, to a vigorous climb up to Wildcat Peak for panoramic Bay views. The trails vary in length and difficulty, and are designated by these symbols on trailside directional posts:

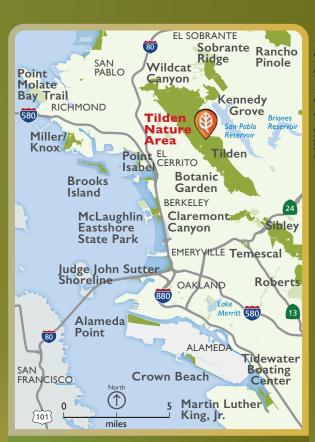

.86 miles, moderate.

Sylvan Trail-.68 miles, gentle. Wildcat Peak Trail-1.5 miles, steep.

moderately steep. Memory Trail-

.51 miles, moderate.

History

Huchuin Ohlone people have lived and thrived in the Wildcat Creek watershed for thousands of years, enjoying the bounty of this rich and diverse ecosystem. The intrusion and settlement of the Spanish and later the establishment of Mexican ranchos, disrupted the Huchuin Ohlone way of life but could not destroy their strong cultural identity and sense of place. Huchuin Ohlone people continue practicing their rich cultural traditions and Chochenyo is a living language.

In 1890, water companies began building wells, dams, and water tunnels for the burgeoning bay area population until water transported from the Sierras proved to be a more dependable source. When watershed lands were opened to development, east bay community leaders organized to preserve some of this open space as parkland. In 1934, in the midst of the Great Depression, Alameda County voters created one of the country's first regional park district.

From 1935 to 1941, a Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) camp resided in today's Tilden Nature Area. Workers built roads, shelters, and picnic sites. Some of their skilled stonework remains.

Ours to Explore, Enjoy and Protect

Please enjoy the Regional Parks safely, and help protect and preserve the parklands by complying with park rules and regulations.

Safety

- Stay on trails. Shortcuts are dangerous and damage natural resources.
